

Simon Wills

Simon Wills is Executive Director of the Operational Riskdata eXchange Association (ORX). Simon is responsible for the strategy and development of ORX. Under his leadership the association has grown into the world's leading operational risk data consortium serving 54 members from 18 different countries. Prior to working with ORX, Simon was a Director with the British Banker's Association where he led the engagement on the reform of the Basel Accord. Simon has led various industry groups including the European Banking Federation Supervisory Committee. He is a regular speaker at industry events and has had articles published in various industry journals.